Cortexi is a hearing support supplement using natural ingredients to support healthy hearing.

One full dropper of Cortexi's liquid formula daily offers a blend of maca, grape, and guarana, among other ingredients, to support your hearing.

Does Cortexi help with hearing loss? How does Cortexi work? Keep reading our review to learn more about the hearing support formula today.

What is Cortexi?

Cortexi is a nutritional supplement built to provide 360-degree hearing support.

Available exclusively online through the official website, the supplement uses natural ingredients to support hearing and ear health.

Some people take Cortexi because they've noticed hearing loss in recent years. Others take Cortexi for tinnitus, ear ringing, and other auditory problems. Whether dealing with hearing loss or simply wanting to maintain ear health, you could experience relief with Cortexi.

Cortexi is usually priced at $179 per bottle. As part of a 2023 promotion, you can pay just $69 per bottle or less. Plus, all three and 6-bottle purchases come with free bonus items.

Cortexi Benefits

The official website says Cortexi can support the following benefits:

- 100% natural formula with plant-based ingredients

- Support healthy hearing

- Support mental sharpness, memory formation, and cognition

- Reduce outside noise and interference

Hear loved ones' and your favorite song clearly

No side effects

Add Cortexi to your coffee or any other drink to enjoy these benefits. Some take one or two drops daily, while others take one full dropper. The flavorless formula works quickly; most customers feel the effects within a week.

How Does Cortexi Work?

Cortexi is designed to work in four ways, including:

Support Healthy Hearing

As you age, the hair cells within your ear naturally degrade, making it harder to hear. Usually, your ear hair cells process noise from the world around you, then transform that noise into electrical signals for your brain to process. It's how hearing works. Due to damage, age, disease, and even some prescription medications, the ear hair cells could become damaged, leading to hearing problems and hearing loss. Cortexi claims to support healthy hearing using natural, plant-based ingredients.

360-Degree Hearing

Cortexi may support 360-degree hearing, helping you hear the world around you more easily. You can experience 360-degree hearing, making it easier to process sounds around you. Good 360-degree hearing is a sign of good ear health, including strong ear hair cells.

Strengthen Memory

The official website says Cortexi can strengthen memory. If your brain is bombarded by noise and incorrect auditory signals, it can interfere with memory formation. Cortexi contains natural ingredients to enhance memory, helping you resume living a healthy and everyday life.

Sharpen Mental Acuity

Cortexi can sharpen your mental acuity, supporting your brain differently than it supports memory. Some people feel sharper after taking Cortexi, while others find their brains work better when their ears can rest.

Cortexi Ingredients

Cortexi contains 20 handpicked ingredients to support hearing and ear health. Each drop contains a blend of herbal extracts, plant extracts, vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients to support hearing in various ways.

Inside Every Cortexi Capsule You'll Find:

Over 20 Carefully-Selected Ingredients That Support Healthy Hearing, Including:

Grape Seed

✔ Antioxidants protect the ear

Green Tea

✔ Improves blood flow to the ears

Gymnema Sylvestre

✔ Supports hearing

Capsicum Annum

✔ Supports healthy inflammation

Panax Ginseng

✔ Neuroprotective properties

Astragalus

✔ Supports clear sounds

Chromium Picolinate

✔ Supports auditory health

Maca Root

✔ Boosts Your Energy

Here are eight of the top active ingredients (out of 20 total) in each drop of Cortexi and how they work, according to the manufacturer:

Grape Seed

Cortexi contains grape seed extract, which has antioxidants to protect your ear. The grape seed extract is rich in natural antioxidants like resveratrol linked to healthy inflammation throughout the body. Many people take grape seed extract or resveratrol supplements daily to support inflammation. According to the makers of Cortexi, those same antioxidants can protect your ear.

Green Tea

Green tea is packed with polyphenols, or plant-based antioxidants, to protect the ear and support healthy inflammation. Cortexi makers say green tea can improve blood flow to the ears. If your hearing problems are caused by poor blood flow, then enhancing that blood flow could help. More blood flow means more oxygen and nutrients traveling to your ears, which could help with hearing, healing, and overall ear health.

Capsicum Annuum

Capsicum annuum supports healthy inflammation, according to the makers of Cortexi. If your tinnitus or hearing problems are caused by inflammation, then capsicum's natural antioxidant molecules could help. Capsicum is typically found in weight loss formulas for its effects on fat burning. Because it contains capsaicin, a natural fat burner and thermogenic, capsicum annuum could help lose weight. In Cortexi, that same ingredient can purportedly help with hearing.

Panax Ginseng

Cortexi contains Panax ginseng, a root popular in traditional Korean and Chinese medicine. Used as a conventional remedy for years throughout East Asia, ginseng is known to contain ginsenosides or plant-based chemicals linked to inflammation. Like green tea, these natural antioxidants can protect the brain and support healthy inflammation around your ears. If your hearing problems or tinnitus are caused by inflammation in the area, then ginseng may be able to help.

Astragalus

Astragalus has a long history of use as an adaptogen in Ayurvedic medicine. As an adaptogen, Cortexi can help manage stress response, making it easier for your body to respond to physical and cognitive stressors. Cortexi makers say the astragalus in the formula can specifically support “clear sounds.” If words seem fuzzy, blurred, or difficult to understand, the astragalus in Cortexi could help.

Chromium Picolinate

Cortexi contains chromium picolinate, a mineral linked to overall health and wellness. Some people take chromium daily for blood sugar management. However, the Cortexi makers added chromium to support auditory health.

Maca Root

Maca root can boost energy, according to the manufacturer. It’s one of the few ingredients in Cortexi without specific effects on hearing or ear health. Instead, it supports overall energy and vitality. Maca grows at altitudes above 13,000 feet and is prevalent in and around the Andes Mountains of South America, where it's been used as a traditional remedy for centuries. Maca is the most significant ingredient in Cortexi by volume.

Who Should Take Cortexi?

The makers of Cortexi specifically designed the formula for people in their 30s, 40s, 50s, 70s, and beyond concerned about hearing and ear health.

Some people take Cortexi because they're dealing with tinnitus, whirring sounds, or other noises in their ears that won't go away.

Others take Cortexi because their hearing problems make it hard to sleep. Tinnitus can leave you with a constant ringing, which makes it hard to quiet your mind at night.

Some also take Cortexi because they've already noticed symptoms of hearing loss. For example, they might have trouble hearing conversations, or their profession may give them frequent exposure to loud noises – like at concerts or construction sites.

Some take Cortexi for general aural health and hearing support. They want to protect their ears from hearing loss long-term, so they take a supplement.

What to Expect After Taking Cortexi

According to the official Cortexi website, most people notice the benefits of Cortexi after taking the supplement for just one week, with more significant results expected over the next few months (or longer).

Here's how the manufacturer explains Cortexi benefits:

“Most people start feeling a difference after the first week. In our tests, the best results come when you take Cortexi consistently for 3 months (or longer) to support and optimize your entire system.”

Therefore, the manufacturer recommends buying 3 or 6 bottles of Cortexi to ensure the ingredients have time to go to work.

Scientific Evidence for Cortexi

Cortexi contains 20 natural ingredients linked to ear health, hearing, and overall cognition. These ingredients work in different ways to support hearing. But can a few drops of liquid support our hearing? Is there any science behind Cortexi? We'll review some of the science below:

Maca is the most significant ingredient in Cortexi. Also known as Lepidium meyenii, maca has a long history of use in traditional medicine in South America, where it's linked to vitality and libido, among other effects. Although there's little evidence maca can improve hearing or support ear health, some studies have shown it can help with blood flow, which may be one reason maca is used to enhance sexual function.

The grape seed extract is the second most prominent ingredient. The grape seed extract is rich in resveratrol, a natural antioxidant linked to anti-aging effects. According to a 2020 study published in Molecules, grape seed extract is packed with polyphenols linked to antidiabetic effects, positive effects on oxidative stress, neuroprotective effects, and more. Although there's little specific evidence it can improve hearing, it could support healthy inflammation throughout the body, which could help with hearing.

Guarana and African mango extract and the third and fourth largest ingredients in Cortexi. In a small study, guarana has been shown to stimulate mitochondrial biogenesis in mice, suggesting it could help with cellular regeneration and energy. African mango extract, meanwhile, is a tropical fruit typically found in weight loss supplements. Studies show that African mango contains a natural ingredient called terminalin linked to better blood sugar control, which could help with weight loss.

Cortexi won't reverse deafness, fix hearing loss, or flip a degenerative brain condition. However, there's evidence that an antioxidant-rich diet can support hearing and brain health in various ways. Cortexi may give you the antioxidants you need for better hearing and brain power.
