CAUSES OF MEN'S HAIR FALL:

1. Hormonal Imbalance: DHT, a byproduct of testosterone, is the primary hormone responsible for male pattern baldness. An excess of DHT can cause the hair follicles to shrink and produce thinner, weaker hair, leading to progressive hair loss over time.
2. Poor Nutrition: A diet lacking in essential nutrients, such as vitamins (especially biotin and folic acid), minerals, and proteins, can impact hair health and contribute to hair fall.
3. Scalp Conditions: Certain scalp conditions, such as scalp infections, psoriasis, or seborrheic dermatitis, can lead to inflammation and damage to hair follicles, resulting in hair loss.
4. Hairstyles and Hair Treatments: Hairstyles that pull on the hair, like tight ponytails or braids, can cause traction alopecia, which is a type of hair loss. Frequent use of hair treatments like bleaching, perming, or straightening can also damage the hair and lead to breakage and hair fall.

Medical Conditions and Treatments: Some medical conditions, like thyroid disorders, autoimmune diseases, and alopecia areata, can cause hair loss in men. Additionally, certain medical treatments like chemotherapy and radiation therapy may result in temporary hair loss. Click HERE To Order this Product
