

Unfortunately, most anti-viral medications that doctors provide are expensive and can come with severe side effects. Medical surgeries that claim to treat and prevent herpes outbreaks can also cost thousands of dollars and don't always work. Because of this, many have resigned themselves to live with spontaneous herpes outbreaks for the rest of their lives.

We saw this massive problem and decided to search far and wide for an affordable and effective treatment for herpes. At first, we only looked for solutions from traditional medicine. But we soon realized that traditional medicine didn't offer many reasonable options for people living with herpes. Instead, we turned to alternative medicine to find an affordable and proven solution. During that search, we stumbled upon Herpesyl, a supplement claiming to eliminate herpes just by taking it once a day.

While we are always hesitant to trust any supplement that claims to solve a problem at face value, we decided to look deeper into it to find out if its claims were provable. After combing through their product page and looking through Herpesyl's ingredients, we were impressed. We believe that it could offer relief for herpes and have decided to review our findings in this article for you, the consumer, to use as a guide.

Before we go any further, it's important to remember that no supplement or other form of treatment can claim to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease. Herpesyl has not been evaluated by the FDA but is produced in an FDA-compliant facility. It's always important to do your own research and consult your physician before taking any product that could affect your body. With that being said, we do think that Herpesyl shows promise as a dietary supplement that could benefit people with herpes.

Our findings and comprehensive summary of Herpesyl are below, along with our opinion on this exciting new supplement that's making bold claims.

What is Herpesyl?

The creator of Herpesyl, Dr. Adrian Kavanagh, claims that he was inspired to take action after seeing the countless cases of herpes in his office. Each time the story was the same, an otherwise healthy patient in the prime of their life who just can't shake the herpes virus. The excruciating pain, itchy sores, and weeks of low self-esteem made them ready to try anything to get rid of their herpes.

Rather than let these patients suffer or have to undergo expensive treatment, Herpesyl's creator instead went on a journey to find a new treatment. After years of studying medical journals, clinical trials, and exotic ingredients, he stumbled upon Dr. Peterson. This doctor claimed to have unlocked the key to stopping herpes dead in its tracks. Together, the two combined their research and found a cocktail of 26 ingredients that showed promise in treating herpes.

They called it Herpesyl.

So just what is this product that claims to not only treat your herpes but eliminate it entirely? According to the Herpesyl website, the key to fighting off herpes lies in the brain's ability to detect it. Research suggests that despite Herpes being a virus, your body is often unable to fight it effectively. That's because it puts up a sort of shield to cloak it from detection using a protein called ICP47.

But what is ICP47? The answer is simple and has been well documented by the medical field for years. It's a protein that sneaky viruses like herpes create to trick your immune system into viewing it as a normal cell. That means that regardless of how strong or active your immune system is, there's hardly a chance for it to eliminate the herpes virus because it doesn't know that it's even there.

Herpesyl's approach to combatting herpes is simple, by revealing herpes to your body's immune system, it can finally be properly dealt with naturally. Of course, uncloaking herpes is a difficult task. Luckily, Herpesyl claims to have cracked the code to making herpes reveal itself. It does this through 26 ingredients that have been painstakingly researched and tested. These ingredients aim to do two things. The first is to flush out herpes and reveal it to your immune system. The second is to strengthen your immune system so that once herpes is visible, it can take it out without issue.

In order to understand how Herpesyl can help you fight off herpes, it's important to know the ingredients that it utilizes and their reported effects.

What's Ingredients Make Up Herpesyl?

While Herpesyl boasts the 26 ingredients that make up its powerful formula, they're worthless if they don't have scientifically proven effects on herpes. Thankfully, after looking into the ingredients that are publicly shared by Herpesyl's creators, there is a lot of promising data backing them up. We've outlined some of the most important ingredients that Herpesyl uses, along with their reported benefits.

Graviola Leaf

This naturally occurring plant has long been used to make medicine and treat infections caused by bacteria or parasites. Herpesyl uses it for its ability to boost your immune system and help it fight off infections. They also claim that it has the ability to cleanse herpes from your brain cells, making it harder for the infection to trick your immune system. While graviola has been used for years for small infections, there hasn't been a lot of research into how it affects herpes. However, the Herpesyl website claims that there were two recent lab studies that confirmed that graviola is an effective treatment for herpes. We were unable to find these studies so take this claim with a grain of salt. With that being said, the cleansing nature of graviola leaf has long been touted and used in a number of treatments for years.

Shitake Mushroom

You may have heard of this mushroom that's commonly consumed in Asia. But did you know that it actually holds powerful nutrients that boost your immune system and strengthen your brain cells? Herpesyl cites a recent study from a group of scientists in Singapore, which showed that Shitake has a significant effect on cognition and helps to prevent cognitive decline. By supplying it directly into your body, Herpesyl brings the benefits of shitake in a way that eating it alone cannot.

Burdock Root

A potent root that's full of nutrients that nourish the brain fight inflammation, and boost your immune system. Burdock root has been a staple in traditional Chinese medicine for hundreds of years. Chinese medicine also claims that it has powerful detoxifying qualities that purify the blood when taken in appropriate amounts. It's also been used to help treat illnesses, infections and has antibacterial uses. It's important to note that pregnant or breastfeeding women and children under 18 have been advised to avoid burdock root due to its possible side effects.

Quercetin Seeds

This is a powerful antioxidant that's found in a variety of fruits and vegetables. When taken in large amounts, it's able to help protect against tissue damage and detoxify the body. While it's naturally found in foods like onions, berries, grapes, broccoli, and citrus, most people are lacking this important flavonoid. Herpesyl aims to cure the deficiency that most people naturally have from a lack of fruits or vegetables in their diets.

Turmeric

A versatile spice that gives a host of health benefits, turmeric is readily available to your body in large quantities when taken with Herpesyl. It also has strong effects on the brain, making it healthier while also protecting you from diseases like Alzheimer's. Not only is it protective, but it will also give a boost of energy once regularly introduced to your body.

There are 21 other ingredients that make up the Herpesyl formula and are designed to help your body fight off herpes. Herpesyl claims that each of these ingredients have been specifically chosen for their ability to improve the brain's ability to fight off infections and boost the immune system. If herpes is hiding in plain sight, Herpesyl's ingredients could flush it out and empower your immune system to fight it off. They claim that it can do this in a matter of weeks and that thousands of customers have found success in using the supplement to help treat their herpes.

If you or your loved ones is suffering from herpes, also known as HSV-1 and HSV-2, you need to pay attention as you are moments away from making a life-changing discovery. There is a doctor called Dr. Adrian Kavanagh who has discovered a scientifically proven method that can stop any cold sore outbreak in its track and put the herpes simplex virus to sleep. This method can put the herpes virus to sleep in a few weeks without you having to take any dangerous or expensive medication.

Doctors think that herpes outbreaks are normal since they are common. However, that is not the case, and getting herpes outbreaks has nothing to do with your immune system or genes. Instead, it is linked to a process happening to the brain. Once you identify the process, you can stop it, eliminate the virus, and repair the damage done to your body. If you are suffering from herpes, you live while worrying that no matter what you do, you will suffer cold sore outbreaks. It is almost as if the virus has a mind of its own. Finally, you can stop worrying that you will suffer an outbreak or get rejected by your partner since you are unable to get intimate with them.

Dr. Adrian had been working with one of the largest pharmaceutical companies until 4 years ago when he quit upon discovery that they had no interest in finding solutions. Instead, they wanted to keep patients hoping that they will get better while still purchasing their medication. Early in his career, he was part of the team that researched, created, and released the drug “Acyclovir”, which is now one of the most common treatments when it comes to herpes. However, no effort was being put into eliminating the herpes virus from the body.

Anyone with herpes knows how bad things can get. It starts with an itch that does not go away and when you scratch it, it turns into a painful cold sore. At this point, you go to the doctor to get anything that can ease the pain and get rid of the itch. Once you get diagnosed with herpes, you live knowing that the disease is incurable. The medication gives you relief but it does not last and the cycle keeps going. At some point, the doctor keeps increasing your dose of acyclovir and valacyclovir and gives you a novocaine solution, which temporarily numbs the area before the pain erupts worse than before.

Herpes is known for its sneak attacks. Once you get infected, your body automatically detects that it is dangerous and tries to fight it. However, once it gets into the bloodstream, it conceals itself using a protein called ICP 47 and becomes invincible. After that, it goes into hibernation and it can take weeks, months, and even years before the first cold sore erupts.

The Natural Herpes Formula Breakthrough?

Dr. Adrian met Sarah Young when she was at her wit's end. She had tried everything but could not stop the outbreaks. She told him her story and this motivated him to conduct more research together with some colleagues. The next day, he got a call from Dr. Peterson, who was part of the Acyclovir team. Dr. Peterson got herpes in his younger years. However, he revealed that he has been herpes-free for the last 9 years.

According to Dr. Peterson, the herpes virus does not start affecting the body from normal body cells but from the brain. During the research into acyclovir, some of the team members who were in charge of looking into the brain made a breakthrough and disappeared. Dr. Peterson explained that the herpes virus knows that it can only survive if the body cells survive. Because of that, it goes and attaches itself to the neurons in the brain cells and attaches itself to them since they survive longer than other body cells.

The neurons are in charge of sending signals throughout the body. By attaching themselves to the neurons, the herpes virus now has full control of the body. As soon as the virus detects an attack, it activates the ICP 47 protein and conceals itself. This is why the herpes virus is so good at concealing itself. When it senses that your immune system is weak, it replicates and launches an attack and you get cold sores. The key to killing the virus is killing it in your brain. To destroy herpes from the brain, you need to introduce certain things to the bloodstream that will not put the virus in defense mode. After treating the brain, you can fight the rest of the virus in the body since it will not be able to send a signal to conceal the virus with the ICP 47 protein.

Dr. Peterson tried giving this to his employer but was rejected and he resigned. He later gave Dr. Adrian the formula and he tested it on Sarah Young. They checked up on Sarah and on the 4th day, the sores got worse and she was giving up. This was the time her body was vigorously fighting the herpes virus as she was in the middle of an outbreak when she started taking the prescription. After about a week, she reported that she was fully healed. All the tests done cleared her of the herpes simplex virus. Thus, Herpesyl is born.

After Sarah was healed, they decided to conduct tests on other people and asked people suffering from herpes to volunteer. They got 50 volunteers with different severity levels. However, they all wanted to try and see if their lives will change and this was their last hope. Within the first month, they no longer suffered from outbreaks. After two months, all the participants were herpes-free. The participants also noticed that their memory and focus improved.

After these tests, the next step was to look for a pharmaceutical company to help start production. They contacted an independent natural pharmaceutical company located in Colorado. Later, they started looking for the ingredients which took a few weeks and they finally had everything needed to create Herpesyl.
