How Does Joint Genesis Work?

Joint pain can attack anyone, whether you are 40 or 80. According to Dr. Mark Weis, the creator of Joint Genesis, wear and tear is not the actual cause of age-related joint decay. He believes that synovial fluid is responsible for joint health and cartilage support.

Hyaluronan is a molecule that absorbs water and keeps the synovial fluid lubricated, hydrated, and thick. The molecule is responsible for maintaining the synovial fluid's optimal function.

It reduces bone friction, prevents cartilage deformation, and is a special lubricant. Hyaluronan provides essential nutrients to the joints and improves healthy inflammatory responses.

As we age, our bodies produce less hyaluronan causing joint stiffness, discomfort, and pain. As a result, the synovial fluid is not nourished enough, which affects the cartilage tissue. Synovial fluid provides a protective layer around the cartilage tissue, thus allowing the cartilage to slide over each other smoothly when moving your joints. It cushions the joints and prevents harm when moving.

Synovial fluid nourishes the cartilage by ensuring sufficient oxygen and nutrient supply. It also forms protective bubbles, which prevent cytokines from attacking the cartilage and causing inflammation.

Joint Genesis contains a powerful ingredient that increases the number of hyaluronan molecules in the synovial fluid by up to ten times. It rehydrates and thickens the synovial fluid, nourishing and lubricating the joints and promoting a healthy inflammatory response.

The formula restores synovial fluid levels, thus reducing pain, discomfort, and joint stiffness. Joint Genesis is packed with nutrients, supports circulation, and improves oxygen supply which is essential for optimal joint function.

Joint Genesis helps maintain healthy, strong, youthful joints even as you age. Some of the formula's key ingredients are antioxidants that restore hyaluronan and synovial fluid and prevent Joint and cartilage inflammation.

Joint Genesis improves the quality of the synovial fluid and hydrates the cartilage tissue reducing fatigue and enhancing flexibility. It restores your body's natural defense to fight age-related joint degeneration and chronic joint pain.

Mobilee has collagen, polysaccharides, peptides, and glycosaminoglycans that support joint health and function. One study revealed that Mobilee reduced pain and enhanced joint function in people with osteoarthritis.

The ingredient helps restore the synovial fluid and prevent Joint and cartilage inflammation. It replenishes depleted synovial fluid in the joints. A healthy amount of synovial fluid supports cartilage and flexibility.

Satsuimaimo

Satsuimaimo is a sweet potato popular in Japan that improves joint health. It increases the natural production of hyaluronan, which supports quality synovial fluid. The ingredient enhances cartilage health and reduces joint pain and discomfort.

It reduces muscle swelling and joint stiffness and thickens the synovial fluid to provide better protection.

Ginger powder

It has active compounds that block the activity of enzymes 5-lipoxygenase and cyclooxygenase, which play a primary role in the secretion of inflammatory molecules in the body. In a study, Boswellia extract provided pain relief for seven days.

Pycnogenol

The rare ingredient is extracted from the bark of a French maritime pine tree. It is rich in antioxidants and anti-inflammatory agents that reduce inflammation, pain, and wear and tear.

Pycnogenol supports a healthy immune response in the body, and its antioxidants are distributed into the synovial fluid in the joints. The ingredient also prevents blood enzymes from damaging the cartilage tissue.
