Additionally, Corydalis is known to improve blood circulation, which can enhance nutrient delivery to nerves and support their healing processes.

3. Prickly Pear (Opuntia Ficus-Indica)

Prickly Pear is rich in antioxidants and anti-inflammatory compounds. It helps reduce inflammation, which is crucial for managing pain and discomfort. Marshmallow Root is known for its soothing properties, particularly for mucous membranes. It may help alleviate irritation in the digestive tract and promote better absorption of nutrients that are essential for nerve health. Additionally, its anti-inflammatory effects can contribute to reducing pain and discomfort associated with nerve issues.
