How Does ProNail Complex Work?

ProNail Complex is a toenail health supplement primarily designed to combat foot and toenail fungus.

By applying ProNail Complex directly to your nails, feet, and skin, you can purportedly clear away fungus using natural ingredients.

Here's how the manufacturer of ProNail Complex explains the effects of the formula and how it works:

"This complex formula is absorbed into the skin and nails extremely quickly, so you won't have to walk around with greasy toenails all day long. Then, put on some cotton socks to make sure you create an unfriendly environment for the fungus while nourishing your skin and helping it to start healing and rebuilding."

Just apply the formula daily to clean feet (say, after you get out of the shower). You spray the solution onto your feet, holding the bottle 6 to 8 inches away from your feet. Then, you wear clean socks to ensure the area stays clean.

By repeating this process daily, you can purportedly clear away fungus and promote long-lasting relief.

Plus, many of the ingredients in ProNail Complex are designed to promote long-term moisturization and comfort, helping your skin and nails recover after an infection. The formula contains aloe vera, for example, which is known for its moisturization effects.

ProNail Complex Ingredients

ProNail Complex contains a blend of natural ingredients – including minerals, nutrients, and natural oils. Together, these ingredients can purportedly combat fungus and support overall foot and toenail health.

Here are all of the active ingredients in ProNail Complex and how they work:

Undecylenic Acid: The largest and most important ingredient in ProNail Complex is undecylenic acid. The formula contains a 5% concentration of undecylenic acid. Undecylenic acid is a popular antifungal solution, and many people use it as a natural remedy for fungal infections – including toenail fungus, athlete's foot, and similar issues. It's a fatty acid derived from castor oil, and many people apply undecylenic acid daily for acne, fungus relief, or general antibacterial effects.

Mineral Oil: Mineral oil is the second largest ingredient in ProNail Complex. It forms the base of the formula while being odorless and tasteless. Mineral oil allows all of the other active ingredients in ProNail Complex to work as advertised to promote their own antibacterial and antimicrobial effects.

Sweet Almond Oil: Sweet almond oil is a popular topical oil people use for skin health, nail fungus relief, acne, hair health, and more. Studies show sweet almond oil has natural antibacterial and antifungal properties. Some even take it orally to fight back against fungal infections from the inside out.

Organic Flaxseed Oil: Flaxseed oil has fungicidal and antibacterial effects. Like canola oil, it also helps hold the ProNail Complex formula together, keeping ingredients stable and allowing them to go to work. Studies show, however, flaxseed oil can effectively kill multiple fungal strains.

Tea Tree Oil: Tea tree oil has a long history of use in traditional medicine for its antibacterial effects. In fact, it may be the most popular natural nail fungus remedy on the market. There's plenty of anecdotal evidence online of people using tea tree oil to clear away toenail fungus. A 1994 study showed tea tree oil was equally effective as the popular antifungal medication, clotrimazole (Desenex) at cleansing toenail fungus infections. Many people use tea tree oil for acne, dandruff, athlete's foot, lice, and nail fungus.

Aloe Vera Leaf: Aloe vera leaf is known for its moisturization effects and anti-inflammatory properties. These effects could make it an effective antifungal solution. In fact, several studies have connected aloe vera to specific antifungal effects, showing it defends against multiple viruses and bacteria. Aloe vera also moisturizes the skin, making it harder for bacteria to infect the area in the future. When skin is dry and cracked, it's easier for bacteria to enter the skin and create an infection. When skin is moist, it creates a natural barrier against the outside world and foreign pathogens. Aloe vera leaf promotes your skin's natural barrier function while providing antifungal effects of its own.

Canola Oil: Canola oil is best-known for its use in cooking and food production. However, it also has antifungal and antibacterial effects of its own, which makes it an active ingredient in ProNail Complex. Canola oil creates a physical barrier that prevents plant infection by fungi, effectively protecting your skin and nails from future infections. Some studies also show canola oil reduces the production of spores by powdery mildew pathogens, reducing your risk of infection further.

Vitamin E: ProNail Complex contains vitamin E in the form of tocopherol acetate. Vitamin E is known for its antioxidant effects. Like vitamin C, vitamin E is one of nature's most valuable antioxidants. By applying vitamin E to your nails daily, you can support your body's natural detoxification processes while also helping with inflammation in the skin surrounding your nails. High levels of inflammation on and around the feet make it difficult for your body's immune system to fight back against fungus. The vitamin E in ProNail Complex could help cleanse fungi, bacteria, and other foot health issues.

Walnut Oil: Walnut oil has antimicrobial, antioxidant, and cytotoxic effects, and many use walnut oil as part of a natural detoxification routine. By applying walnut oil daily to your skin, feet, and toenail fungus, you could help your immune system go to work. One study even tested walnut oil against the herpes virus and found it was proven to work. Researchers believe these effects are linked to the high content of phenols and flavonoids within walnut oil.

Menthol: Menthol is known for its cooling effects across the skin, but it can also promote antifungal and antibacterial effects. Studies show menthol inhibits Candida albicans growth by affecting the membrane integrity of the bacteria, effectively deactivating the bacteria. If you apply menthol directly to your foot and toenail fungus, you could take advantage of these antibacterial effects, helping to cleanse your feet. By affecting the membrane integrity of bacteria, menthol also induces oxidative stress, according to the results of that study, leading to cell death and apoptosis. In other words, menthol helps your immune system function as it should, cleansing away viruses and bacteria from the body upon contact.

Camphor: Camphor is one of the best-known essential oils for antifungal activity, and it's been proven to kill certain viruses, bacteria, and pathogens upon contact. Camphor oil is also popular in aromatherapy, and many use it for respiratory health. The oil comes from the wood of camphor trees.

Manufacturers process the oil via steam distillation. When applied topically, camphor oil has been shown to reduce pain and promote antibacterial effects across the body.

Clove Bud Oil: Clove bud oil and eugenol, the active ingredient within clove bud oil, have powerful antifungal effects against multiple types of fungi. Many people apply clove oil daily to their skin as a natural remedy for acne, while others use it for foot fungus and other types of bacteria. Clove bud oil is also used for other purposes: some use it for energy, balance, and clarity, for example. Historically, clove bud oil was used in traditional medicine for pain relief, digestive health, and respiratory health, among other benefits.

Jojoba Oil: Jojoba oil comes from the beans of a desert shrub. It has a natural golden, bright color. Some use it for hair and skin health. Others use it for natural fungicidal properties. Studies show jojoba oil is rich with antioxidants that could help combat fungi and viruses, making jojoba oil valuable in natural fungus solutions like ProNail Complex.

Chia Oil: Chia oil isn't as well-known as other ingredients in ProNail Complex for its fungicidal effects. However, some studies have nonetheless connected chia oil to antimicrobial activity and antifungal effects. By applying chia oil to your feet and skin daily, you could support your body's natural cleansing processes and help remove bacteria, viruses, and fungi from your skin.

Lemongrass Oil: Lemongrass oil has been shown to demonstrate a “potent fungicidal effect” against certain types of bacteria and fungi, according to multiple studies. Like other oils in ProNail Complex, it has been tested against Candida albicans and shown to promote fungicidal effects.

Lavender Oil: Lavender oil is used in a variety of health and wellness applications – from rest and relaxation to antifungal activity. Studies show lavender oil could protect against Candida albicans yeast and other types of fungal infections. When you apply lavender oil to your skin and toenails in the form of ProNail Complex, you could utilize these antifungal effects to combat fungi and other bacteria. In fact, some have even proposed using lavender oil to combat bacteria that are increasingly resistant to traditional medication.

Manuka Leptospermum Scoparium Oil: Manuka leptospermum scoparium, better-known simply as manuka, is a unique type of flowering tree native to New Zealand and southeastern Australia. The nectar of the tree produces manuka honey, which has surged in popularity in the health and wellness world. Manuka is believed to have natural antibacterial and antifungal effects – which is one reason manuka honey lasts so long. Some even describe manuka honey as “medical grade honey” because it’s proven to be effective against multiple bacterial biofilms – including Candida biofilms. The combination of manuka oil and other natural oils in ProNail Complex could promote healthy toenails and foot fungus relief.

Overall, ProNail Complex contains a blend of ingredients shown to support healthy toenails, help clear away fungus, and promote recovery, among other benefits.

Scientific Evidence for ProNail Complex

Can you really clear away foot and toenail fungus without medication? How does ProNail Complex work? Is there any science behind the formula? The makers of ProNail Complex cite 17 studies on the formula’s references page.

We'll review that evidence to explore how the formula works and what it does.

A 2017 study published in the Oman Medical Journal found aloe vera leaf extract was effective against multiple types of fungal species. Researchers exposed those fungal species to aloe vera at different concentrations and found aloe vera was better than a standard alcohol solution for combatting fungus. Because of these results, researchers believe aloe vera “has a significant antifungal effect” towards certain types of fungi.

Tea tree oil is also backed by ample scientific evidence connecting it to potent antifungal effects. A 2021 study, for example, found tea tree oil expressed significant antifungal activity. In fact, researchers found the anti-inflammatory and antifungal effects of tea tree oil were comparable to an antifungal agent called ketoconazole (KTZ), which is typically used to treat serious skin infections.

ProNail Complex also contains lesser-known, more unique oils – including oils backed by their own antifungal evidence. A 2021 study, for example, found walnut oil had antimicrobial, antioxidant, and cytotoxic effects, making it an effective way to combat multiple strains of fungus.

Many of the ingredients in ProNail Complex have been tested against Candida albicans, one of the most common types of fungus affecting the human body. Menthol, for example, was shown to inhibit C. albicans growth by affecting the membrane integrity of the fungi, leading to cell death. Researchers applied menthol oil to C. albicans and found it caused cell death, effectively inhibiting the bacteria.

Undecylenic acid is another proven ingredient in ProNail Complex. Studies show undecylenic acid has powerful antifungal effects – particularly against Candida albicans. Many acne formulas and natural antifungal solutions use undecylenic acid for lasting relief. studies show the acid can interrupt the biofilm created by infections, making it easier for your immune system to clear it away.

Overall, ProNail Complex contains a blend of over a dozen essential oils linked to potent antifungal effects. By applying these essential oils daily, you could promote relief from fungus, bacterial infections, and other issues on and around your feet and toenails.
