How Protoflow Works

As tens of thousands of men have found, Protoflow is one of the newest natural supplements for prostate health. It works in a number of ways to support prostate health, such as:

Blocking the conversion of testosterone into estrogen

High estrogen levels have been directly linked to an increased rate of BPH as well as prostate cancer. It also causes severe inflammation and contributes to poor reproductive health and function.

Several of the ingredients in Protoflow are known to limit the amount of estrogen in your body. Over time, this should allow your testosterone levels to rise, improving your sexual performance and improving your reproductive health.

It inhibits the 5-AR enzyme

Saw palmetto, one of the main ingredients in Protoflow, inhibits an enzyme known as 5-AR. 5-AR increases the amount of testosterone that is converted into dihydrotestosterone, or DHT.

Studies have found DHT can lead to a swollen prostate, inhibiting its function and causing painful or burning ejaculation and urination. Limiting DHT production is key to promoting your prostate health and can eliminate any pain you have during urination and ejaculation.

It eliminates inflammation in your prostate

Over time, inflammation in your prostate is going to cause swelling, pain, and poor sexual health. It'll also contribute to frequent urinary problems because it puts excess pressure on your bladder, so you feel like you constantly need to use the bathroom. Even worse it can contribute to erectile dysfunction as well.

Virtually every ingredient in Protoflow is known to have some antioxidant and anti-inflammatory benefits, helping to quickly remove this inflammation in your body. You'll steadily feel less pressure in your bladder, reducing the urge to go. You should notice your sexual performance improve over time as well.

Ingredients in Protoflow

Protoflow included twelve of the most powerful natural ingredients known to support prostate health. All of these ingredients were carefully included for their efficiency and their safety.

We won't go through all of the ingredients, but some of the ingredients include:

- Saw palmetto: Saw palmetto is known to inhibit an enzyme called 5-AR, which converts testosterone into DHT. High DHT levels cause the prostate to swell, causing painful urination and the frequent urge to go. Studies have found even low doses of saw palmetto can combat this.
- Horny goat weed: Horny goat weed is primarily used as a natural aphrodisiac because it stimulates sex drive. However, it also enhances blood flow, which can combat ED, one of the most common effects of poor prostate health.

- Tribulus: Tribulus is one of the most well-known herbal extracts to enhance testosterone production. Several studies have linked testosterone to prostate function by limiting the harmful effects of estrogen. Tribulus can also boost libido and sex drive.
- Cayenne fruit: Cayenne fruit contains various antioxidants and anti-inflammatory compounds that help alleviate chronic inflammation and reduce swelling. This should help relieve the pressure on your bladder and prevent inflammation from causing bladder leaks and issues.
- Damiana leaf extract: Damiana leaf extract is considered one of the most effective natural remedies to boost sexual health in men. It acts as a natural aphrodisiac to boost sexual desire in men. It has also been used to alleviate prostate issues and impotence for centuries. Some evidence suggests it can significantly reduce the risk for developing BPH as well.

In addition to these ingredients, Protoflow also includes hawthorn berry, muira puama, Chinese ginseng, oat straw, inosine, oat straw, catuaba bark, and ginkgo biloba. All of these ingredients are also third party tested for purity, potency, and quality to ensure only the highest quality ingredients make their way into the final product.

Side Effects of Protoflow – Is it Safe?

Perhaps the best thing about Protoflow is that not only was it designed to be a powerful prostate supplement – it was designed to be safe too. In fact, as of this writing, there haven't been any reports of any serious side effects while using the product.

Of course, this does not mean that side effects cannot occur – only they haven't occurred yet. Any supplement can cause minor side effects like headache, nausea, or indigestion. However, the risk of experiencing these side effects while using the product is incredibly low.

Despite the lack of side effects, Protoflow may still not be right for everyone to use. For example, this product is only intended for otherwise healthy adults over the age of 18. Therefore, do not use the product if you are under 18 or allow your children to use it.

Likewise, since this product affects prostate health, it is important to speak to your doctor before trying this product if you have a prostate condition or are on medication for prostate issues. In fact, it is recommended you speak to a doctor if you have any medical condition.

Overall, Protoflow is a very safe, effective product that should not negatively impact your health. However, if you are unsure whether this product is right for you, then you can speak to your doctor.
