What are the Ingredients in Zenith Labs TitanFlow?

Pumpkin Seed Oil

Pumpkin Seed Oil in TitanFlow™ is a potent ingredient traditionally used to support urinary and prostate health. Recent research has demonstrated that it offers two significant advantages for urinary flow. Firstly, after meals and drinks with diuretic effects, individuals supplementing with pumpkin seed oil experience reduced urgent trips to the bathroom and improved complete bladder emptying. Secondly, daily intake of pumpkin seed oil has been found to strengthen urethra walls, leading to a notable enhancement in flow metrics by over 20%. This strengthening effect helps fortify urethra walls against being squeezed shut, allowing for complete emptying and a smoother urine flow.

Beta-Sitosterol

Beta Sitosterol, another key nutrient in pumpkin seeds and in TitanFlow™, provides additional support for complete bladder emptying and flow. When combined with pumpkin seed oil, beta-sitosterol works synergistically to enhance the benefits even further. This compound plays a crucial role in ensuring a steady urine stream and improving prostate comfort by complementing the effects of other ingredients within the formula.

Lycopene

Lycopene, an antioxidant featured in TitanFlow™, protects the epithelial cells of the urethra from damage. Studies indicate that maintaining healthy levels of lycopene can support optimal urinary flow by safeguarding the integrity of these crucial cells. By including lycopene in the formula, TitanFlow™ aims to offer comprehensive support for urinary health by protecting against potential damage.

Broccoli Sprout Extract

Broccoli Sprout Extract is a critical component in TitanFlow™ that delivers antioxidants to fortify the walls of the urethra. This extract also supplies essential nutrients that aid in detoxification, helping flush out toxins that may compromise urinary health. By incorporating broccoli sprout extract, TitanFlow™ offers a holistic approach to supporting urinary flow by addressing the strength and integrity of the urethra walls.

Pygeum

Pygeum, an herbal extract known for its traditional use in promoting urinary health, is a significant ingredient in TitanFlow™. Modern research highlights the ability of pygeum to relax smooth muscles, thereby improving urine flow and reducing urinary discomfort. By leveraging the benefits of pygeum, TitanFlow™ provides multiple layers of support for maintaining complete bladder emptying, a consistent urine stream, reduced urgency, and enhanced prostate comfort.

Combining these primary ingredients in TitanFlow™ offers a unique and comprehensive approach to supporting healthy urinary flow and prostate health. By targeting the strength of urethra walls and providing synergistic benefits, TitanFlow™ stands out as a one-of-a-kind solution for men looking to maintain optimal urinary health and wellness.
